AP — Presi-radiation from the tests would be ys the fallout "well within the guides for gen-d come from eral population health and safety, ng in the at-as set by the Federal Radiation
sidered remote Council."

"Nevertheless," he added, "I at "these tests find it deeply regrettable that any d under condi-radioactive material must be t the radioac-added to the atmosphere—that absolute mini-even one additional individual's han the con-seable future. And however remot and infinitesimal those hazards are judged to be, I still exceedingly regret the necessity of balancing these hazards against the hazards to hundreds of millions of lives which would be created by any relative decline in our nuclear strength."

Kennedy said that "by paying close attention to location, wind and weather conditions, and by holding these tests over open sea, we intend to rule out any problem of fallout in the immediate area of testing."

Low Level
Also, he added, the increase in radiation in the northern hemisphere, where nearly all such fallout occur, will be kept to a very low level.

U.S. officials said this was a virtue of testing in the Pacific near the Equator—at Christmas Island, for instance, where the United States may run off some of its stores.

Nuclear bursts conducted in the equatorial latitudes distribute their fallout more generally throughout the world. In contrast, the Soviet tests in the polar latitudes tend to concentrate their fallout in the northern hemisphere where 80 per cent of the world's population is located.

Cause for Air Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — The grim task of determining what caused an American Airlines jetliner to plunge with 95 persons into the icy waters of Jamaica Bay centered today on the theory of a control system failure.

But government investigators had no definite evidence that it was such a failure that threw the sleek Boeing 707 into a nose dive Thursday, moments after take-off from Idlewild Airport.

All aboard died in what was the worst accident in the nation's history involving a single commercial aircraft.

Probe for Clues
Begrimed searchers dug ever deeper into the salt water and muck for pieces of the disintegrated aircraft and the remaining dead.

Early today, salvage crews had recovered 72 bodies. Only 11 had been positively identified.

Possibly the most important part of the $5½-million astrojet still buried in the bay was the plane's flight recorder box, a yellow steel globe about the size of a basketball.

The recorder, designed to withstand the force of any crash, keeps a record of the performance in flight of an aircraft—its speed, altitude and other operational information.

Kennedy Uses Solemn Tones to Reveal Testing Plans
'No Single Decision Has Been More Thoughtfully, Carefully Weighed'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "No single decision of this administration has been more thoroughly or more thoughtfully weighed," said President Kennedy.

Then, in solemn tones he told the nation and the world Friday night that U. S. nuclear weapons tests would be resumed in the atmosphere unless the Soviet Union agreed to a foolproof inspection system.

In making the decision, Kennedy is understood to have had the unanimous support of top officials concerned with the nuclear test question. Those close to the President say there was no behind-the-scenes debate on nuclear testing.

At the highest level, they said,
officials were agreed.

Testing Plan Gets Support From Allies

Proposal Smacks of Blackmail, Soviet New Agency Reports

U.S. allies today justified President Kennedy's move to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere,
but the Russians said it smacked of blackmail.

The Soviet news agency Tass predicted Premier Khrushchev would reject Kennedy's price for calling off the resumption of tests
—Russian agreement to an iron-clad test ban. Tass said the conditions set by the President were "strongly reminiscent of blackmail."

Japan, determined foe of all nuclear tests, appealed to Kennedy to reconsider, even though the Soviet Union broke the nuclear moratorium last fall and conducted a series of tests. Kennedy's announcement set off a small demonstration by leftist students in front of the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo.

There was no immediate reaction from the nonaligned nations, which have declared themselves to be against testing all nuclear weapons under any conditions.

The British government gave the United States full support.
Newspapers throughout Western Europe viewed the U.S. move as inevitable as a result of the recent Soviet explosions.

The British Foreign Office said the U.S. decision was necessary to "insure the preservation of freedom in the world."

The British statement came a half-hour after Kennedy announced his decision in a solemn, 32-minute broadcast to the American people and the world.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government said Kennedy's policy provided "a further opportunity for the Russians to sign a treaty banning tests altogether.
Her majesty's government is in entire agreement with the decision of the nuclear policy announced by President Kennedy."

JFK Changes Suit To Help TV Contrast

WASHINGTON (AP) — President
Kennedy bowed to the television technicians in the matter of his dress for his broadcast Friday night. He walked from the executive mansion to his office wearing a light gray suit, and asked if it was all right for the television cameras.

A darker shade would be better, he was told. So he returned to his quarters and changed suits.
Before the cameras he wore a dark gray suit and blue shirt.

One Youth Was Killed and three persons were injured in a two car collision on County Trunk J in the Town of Oshkosh. James P. Savka, 18, a passenger in the black sedan died three hours after the crash. James C. Becker, 26, Oshkosh, driver of the second vehicle, received multiple head and facial cuts. Police were not sure if the Becker vehicle had safety belts. There were no safety belts in the car in which Savka died, police said.

OSHKOSH—An Oshkosh youth died at 4:45 a.m. today of injuries suffered three hours earlier in a two-car crash at U. S. 45 and Winnebago County Trunk J in the Town of Oshkosh.

James P. Savka, 18, 1608 Bow-fractured left leg and multiple cuts and abrasions. He was a passenger in his car, driven by Selwyn J. Micka, 19, 1411 N.

Other Injuries
A third person in the Micka car, Beverly Voldness, 18, route collar bone and left elbow fractures. Micka and Becker received multiple head and facial cuts.

Becker reported to Winnebago County police he remembered driving north on Bowen Street toward Winnebago State Hospital.
He said the next thing he recalled was glass flying.

Micka told police he did not see the other car. Both cars were totally demolished.

Savka was Winnebago County's fifth traffic fatality of the year.

Davis, 67, Eau Claire.

Authorities said Langdell was

Kennedy Couples Decision With Appeal to Soviets for Cheat-Proof Test Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with the grim danger of decisive Soviet gains in the atomic arms race, the United States will begin nuclear air tests in the Pacific late next month unless Moscow agrees quickly to a cheatproof test-ban treaty.

President Kennedy announced this decision in a broadcast to the world Friday night. He coupled it with an urgent bid to Soviet leaders to return quickly to the negotiating table and join in working out a "fully effective treaty" to make tests unnecessary.

"It is our hope and prayer," Kennedy declared, "that these grim, unwelcome tests will never have to be made

—that these deadly weapons will never have to be fired—that our preparations for war will bring us
the preservation of peace."

But he said bluntly that the next move was up to the Kremlin.

"In the last analysis, it is the leaders of the Soviet Union who must bear the heavy responsibility of choosing in the weeks that lie ahead whether we proceed with these steps (for arms control—or proceed with new tests," Kennedy said.

His reluctant but long-considered decision was made, Kennedy said, because of gains in nuclear weapons power made by the Soviet Union through a series of more than 40 tests fired last fall after months of secret preparation. The Russians did not gain superiority in nuclear power through those tests, Kennedy said, but they achieved progress in weapons development which could lead to important breakthroughs in some later test series.

Inspection System
"I must report to you in all candor," the President declared,
"that further Soviet series, in the absence of further Western progress, could well provide the Soviet Union with a nuclear attack and defense capability so powerful as to encourage aggressive designs."

Unless the arms race can be stopped with a test-ban treaty policed by an international inspection system, Kennedy asserted, the United States must advance its own weapons development in order to preserve "the free he
and House Republican Leader
world's ability to deter, to survive, and to respond to an all-out attack."

Tass, the Soviet news agency, past nine months.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike
Mansfield of Montana said leaders of both parties met with the President before his nationwide television and radio address Friday night and supported the decision.

"In spite of the rebuffs from the Russians, he (Kennedy) has shown great patience," Mansfield said. "The attitude of the Soviet Union leaves no choice but to do what he has done. If the Soviet Union is still interested, there is still time to come to a tension system, Kennedy asserted, foolproof and lasting agreement."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said order to preserve "the free he
and House Republican Leader
world's ability to deter, to survive, and to respond to an all-out
attack."

Optimism Lingers Despite Collapse in Steel Labor Talks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel labor talks have collapsed in a United Steelworkers Union, representing some 430,000 workers in basic steel mills, had made a good deal of progress while failing to nail down a final deal.

Union Holds Out
It was reliably reported the industry had offered wage and other benefits worth 6 to 8 cents an hour but the union held out for a settlement package more in the neighborhood of 10 cents an hour.

This argued for a faster resumption of negotiations than the May 1 day mentioned by union
President David J. McDonald. It was also believed likely the government will prod the parties toward a quicker get-together.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J.
Goldberg said in Washington that President Kennedy asked him to say that "after a suitable recess it would be in the national good for the parties to resume negotiations to the end that a reasonable settlement in the public interest can be concluded."

This was translated in Pittsburgh to mean "wait a little while to cool off, boys but don't make it longer than a week or so."

Engine Spills into Idaho Lake; Four Crew Members, Two Passengers Possibly Dead

ATHOL, Idaho (AP) — A crack Several passenger cars were knocked on their sides halfway down the steep hill leading to the frozen stretch of north Idaho, de-lake. Others were still standing beside the tracks.

"North Coast Limited"
The ill-fated train was the westbound North Coast Limited, enroute from Chicago to Spokane,
Wash., 40 miles southwest of here.

One witness said the jumbled train cars "looked like a bunch of jackstraws."

It was several hours before rescuers, scrambling down the steep, snow-slickened bank, could remove some of the injured passengers. The injured were rushed to hospitals at nearby Sandpoint and Coeur d'Alene over roads mad treacherous by compact snow and ice.

Elizabeth Felling, Wayzata,
Minn., and Joanne Schneider, Windon, Minn., were in the car sixth from the engine when the disaster occurred.

Seats Rip Loose
"Seats ripped loose and people seemed to fly through the air every which way," they said.

"There was screaming everywhere."

The grade school in this town of 231 persons was pressed into use today that a strike will be service to care for passengers avoided.

than two weeks of bargaining sessions Friday night but admitted statements they had swapped without reaching a middle ground.

Protestant Churches Plan Religious Exhibit, Tourist Aid at Seattle Fair

BY DALE NELSON
SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—“We wanted to do something which people who do not go to church would not expect the churches to be doing.”

This, says Dr. Lemuel Petersen, has been one of the principles in planning Protestant church participation in the Seattle World's Fair.

The fair opens at noon April 21, twelve hours before Easter Sunday.

The emphasis will be on science and technology but a science pavilion will be the Christian Witness Pavilion.

What are the things people might not expect churches to be doing?

For one thing, caring for children while their parents see the fair. For another, presenting a seven-minute film recounting in space-age countdown fashion the crises of life. For a third, not having anybody preach a sermon.

Dr. Petersen, executive secretary of the Greater Seattle Council of Churches, says planning started in 1959.

“A Princeton student wrote that she had read about the science, fair and wanted to know what the churches were doing,” he recalls.

Formed Corporation

Local church leaders got busy and formed Christian Witness in Century 21, a corporation with 21 Protestant and Orthodox denominations participating. Dr. Luvorn L. Rieke, a law professor at the University of Washington and an active Lutheran layman, was elected president, and Dr. Petersen became executive vice president.

The local church leaders, meeting for weekly prayer and planning sessions, set a budget of close to $300,000 and have raised it by private subscription.

The corporation rented 5,000 square feet of exhibit space at the regular rates. Under Washington law it gets no tax break.

The Stained Glass Association of America held a $20,000 contest for a stained glass window design. John W. Winterich and Associates of Bedford, Ohio, won it with an abstract design by Erik Erikson for a window 10 feet high and 40 across, featuring chunks of quartz embedded in an aggregate of marble chips. It will form the facade of the pavilion, a temporary structure topped by natural wood arches and a cross.

Children's Center

The children's center idea was suggested to Dr. Rieke while he was attending a board meeting of the American Lutheran Church in Minneapolis.

Two hours of child care will cost parents $1 for one child and 50 cents for each additional one.

The sessions for children three to seven, will include informal play, a Bible story and creative activity in the arts. Margaret Staeger Woods of Seattle Pacific College, president-elect of the elementary - kindergarten - nursery department of the National Education Association, will be in charge.

The film for adults will be shown in a semicircular theater, seating 55, reached by a black-lit tunnel.

“A newborn babe being spanked by a doctor flashes on the screen at the count of ten,” says Dr. Rieke. “Symbolized by the down number one is a casket. Zero is the beginning of a new life.”

The building also will contain a meditation chapel and a chapel's office which local ministers will take turns staffing.

Dr. Petersen says the corporation considered having services in the chapel but decided it was too small.

Lawrence V-12 Trainee Turns Song Writer

A career navy man who was trained in the Lawrence College V-12 unit during World War II has come out with four recorded pop tunes.

He is Lt. Cmdr. Boris Cherney, who was at Lawrence from July, 1943, to February, 1944, and whose wife is the former Lawrentian Barbara Griffiths, 41.

Cmdr. Cherney has written songs in his free time for 24 years, but only in the last year has he made any attempt to turn professional. Now working in collaboration with Leonard McCall, a professional ASCAP music writer, Cherney has written the lyrics for four songs which have been recorded under the Band Box label for release in March.

Released this week were the tunes “Forgive Me” and “It's All Over,” with Sue LeBan as the recording artist. Coming out March 16 is “Just A Puppet,” and “Dancing Silhouettes,” recorded by Dean Hayden. Sheet music will be available shortly after the record release dates.

Cherney was assigned to Lawrence from the active fleet and has continued in the navy since World War II. The Cherneys now are stationed in Philadelphia. Before he was in Hawaii and Guam. While in Hawaii, Cherney taught beginning accounting at the Hawaiian Extension Division.

Your Problems

High School Steadies Break Up As Separate Interests Develop

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 19 and life isn't worth living. Jerry and I went steady all through high school. It was real love, not the puppy variety. Then Jerry went to college I went to work. Maybe that's where I made my big mistake. But I hated school and was relieved to be through with it. I couldn't want to get out and make some money of my own and buy some decent clothes. Jerry has been away at college for a year and a half now. His letters are becoming colder and colder. When he was home for the Christmas I talked about marriage. He talked about the army, more school and his responsibilities to his family. We didn't have much fun. It was mostly arguing. He has been dating society girls at school even though I have remained true to him. I am heart-broken. I know I am losing him and it's killing me. What can I do? — Sleepless Nights

Dear Sleepless: This is one of the big hazards of going steady all through high school. The more dependent member of the combination is especially vulnerable to heartbreak. Face it, Chucky, Jerry's horizons have broadened and you have been left behind. Remove that "Reserved" sign from your neck (and from your heart) and make new friends. Jerry has long since done so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The fellow I went with last year gave me a picture of himself in a 5 x 7 gold frame. When we broke up I packed the picture away in the attic.

Now I am going with another boy. Last week my ex-boy friend called and said he'd like to have his gold frame back.

It so happens that my present boy friend is giving me a 5 x 7 picture of himself for my birthday and I was planning on using the other guy's frame.

My boy friend says I should for a year and a half now. His give the frame back and also the letters are becoming colder and colder. I am willing to return the picture but I think the frame belongs to me. Right? — Soeey

Dear Soeey: You will enjoy your present boy friend's picture more in a brand new frame. Return the picture and frame intact. You are entitled to keep it but since he asked, it's the "advice" thing to do.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Of course I can't ask anyone I know. Please give me some help. What should my daughter Maggie call her father's second wife? When my husband was going with this woman, he asked Maggie to call her by her first name. Now Siegfried Klausner, the great Vient that these are married he says this is not proper. Both my former husband and his wife have

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am not in favor of the adjective "old" or "new" in connection with a wife. It sounds as if you're talking about a broken-down sofa.

A second wife is a step-mother to her husband's children whether his first wife is living or dead. Your daughter should refer to this woman as "step-mother."

asked Maggie to refer to her as "my step-mother."

In my opinion this is not only incorrect but an insult to me. After all, I am still alive and in pretty good health. Can a child have a living mother and a living step-mother also?

I say she should call this woman by her first name and refer to her as "my father's new wife."

What do you say? — Old Wife

Dear Old Wife: I am not in favor of the adjective "old" or "new" in connection with a wife. It sounds as if you're talking about a broken-down sofa.

A second wife is a step-mother to her husband's children whether his first wife is living or dead. Your daughter should refer to this woman as "step-mother."

Sheinwold Good Hand In Old File

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A bridge player with a good library often goes back over the old hands like a miser fondling his gold. My last trip to the files brought up this little gem, played more than twenty years ago by Siegfried Klausner, the great Vient that these are married he says this is not proper. Both my former husband and his wife have thought (those Viennese experts were fast thinkers!) Klausner proceeded . . .

But why should I spoil your fun? See for yourself how you would play the hand. You can even steal a glance at the East-West cards

Sets Up Dummy
Klausner proceeded to set up the dummy. He led a club to the ace and ruffed a club with the queen of spades. Mind you, not with a low spade.

Declarer next laid down the ace of spades. After all, the jack might drop. But it didn't, so Klausner continued with a low spade!

West stepped up with the jack of spades, glad to get this trick. He returned a diamond (as good a defense as any), forcing dummy to ruff.

Klausner returned a club from dummy and ruffed with the king of spades. Then he led his other low spade to dummy's ten, drawing West's last trump. The lead was in dummy, and all the clubs were good. Six spades bid and made.

Even the opponents applauded. And the hand is still a source of pleasure after twenty-odd years.

As dealer, you hold S 10 9 8 3 H 3 D 6 C A Q 7 6 4 3 2. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. Don't consider a shutout bid when you have strong support for a major suit (especially spades). There is such a thing as shutting your partner out, too.

Atmospheric Tests

Two perennial portrayers of doom, Dr. Linus Pauling and Dr. Bertrand Russell, have spoken out in rage against any resumption of nuclear testing in the atmosphere by the United States and Great Britain. It's "preparing global butchery," according to Russell. Pauling says "this is premeditated murder of millions of people."

Dr. Pauling is an American Nobel prize chemist who quite often has been associated with left wing extremists who see the danger of death as greater than that of submission to Red rule. Dr. Russell has been an advocate of the "better Red than dead" philosophy. Both men were apparently shaken into a huff when the Soviets tried to prove to him that their bomb was a "clean" one. Pauling now says that the Russian tests will claim more than four million victims eventually through still births and crippling malformation caused by the fallout.

Scientifically, Dr. Pauling may be right. We do not know, nor does there seem to be any sure way of knowing at this time, exactly how serious is the radioactive material which the Russians have cast into the atmosphere. And now that we shall resume testing, the Russians may do the same with their far more casual approach to danger to the populations of the world.

But what if the West had declined to test in the atmosphere purely upon the decision, suggested by Pauling and Russell, that there is danger to future generations? How many millions would have been doomed to death by that decision? How many Hungarians, for instance, died in torture chambers because the United Nations was unable or unwilling to move into Budapest in 1958? How many East Germans have perished and how many more may because we didn't quite have the nerve to knock down that Berlin wall when it was being erected? How many North Koreans have starved to death because we didn't dare bomb on the other side of the Yalu River?

The Soviet Union offers no guarantee whatsoever that it will not again resume atmospheric testing when it wants more know-how or feels the need to attempt to terrorize some segment of the world. The people of the West, despite the appeasers like Pauling and Russell, never will submit to Communist domination. If we are not prepared for a war with the Soviet Union, let us know for such a war is very likely to come.

There are sins of omission as well as commission. If the experts in the United States and Great Britain have decided that we are endangered without the knowledge we can gain from further testing then there is no alternative to such tests. The possible dooming to death or crippling of unborn children is no worse than dooming them to slavery and degradation.

Defeat for Kennedy

The defeat of President Kennedy's proposal for an urban renewal department in the cabinet, by the House of Representatives, is proof that an organized minority in Congress still can be effective even though it is badly outnumbered.

Rep. John Byrnes of Green Bay was a leader in the successful effort to block the President's plan and he demonstrated great skill in putting together the coalition which out-voted the administration supporters.

Rep. Byrnes had some well-grounded reasons for opposing the creation of this cabinet department. He declared that it was another move for further centralization of power in Washington and that it would further undermine state's rights by encouraging cities to deal directly with the federal government in attempting to solve renewal problems. But actual defeat of the proposal came on political grounds and the leaders of the opposition were able to take advantage of the fortuitous set of circumstances.

At the same time President Kennedy announced he wished to create the department he also stated that he would appoint Robert Weaver to be the first Negro member of the cabinet and head the department. Rep. Byrnes immediately took the floor of the House and denounced this attempt to use racial political pressure to force the measure through Congress. The move backfired on the President when it led southern conservative Democrats to join Republicans in the opposition.

President Kennedy denounced the House action as an example of "sectionalism," and deplored the splitting of our

Off We Go!

When Lt. Col. John Glenn spoke of his space orbit before Congress last week, he emphasized there were possibilities in space exploration as great as those opened by the discovery of electricity many years ago.

His statement contrasts with that made by a famous and successful motorcyclist speaking about flying back in 1907: "It's not a bad sport, but there's no place to go."

The vision of some men and women may be the difference that separates the great from those who merely have talent. A famous mountain climber, who later died on Mt. Everest, was asked why he climbed mountains. "Because they are there," he said, expressing the search of mankind for the unknown, but also indicating that he didn't know what to do with it. It has been those who have seen the possibilities and man's use of new discoveries who have become the Edisons, the Einsteins and the Glenns.

Columbus saw past the fears of his decade to a land beyond the ocean even though he was wrong as to what the land was. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson saw beyond the immediate and limited matters of fighting the British to what the infant United States could become. Lincoln saw further than an argument about slavery to a truly united nation.

John Glenn seems to have joined the ranks of those who have seen beyond the immediate and have caught a glimpse of the eternal.

Cage Meets, Traffic Have Similarities

From The Wisconsin Traffic Safety Reporter

With the intercollegiate basketball season in Wisconsin headed for its annual exciting climax of championship games and state tournament play, there will probably be occasions when calm objectivity gives way to overpowering emotion, when desire for victory temporarily obscures our traditional love of fair play.

In our frenzy, as the game becomes desperate, it may almost seem to us that the officials should be wearing the uniform of the opposition.

At such times we usually retain enough of a grip on ourselves to realize that the whole wonderful program would collapse into chaos if we didn't have strict rules, and honorable, capable officials to call the fouls as they see them.

The same is true in traffic. Here, too, we need rules — and alert, incorruptible officials to enforce them.

The traffic officer, though impartial, is really on our side. He'd rather "assist" than "arrest" — the record shows that. Even when traffic law enforcement seems to threaten our pride and our pocketbook, we should pause to consider the frightening alternative: traffic without order, violation without justice, frustration without recourse, accidents without end.

Secretaries of State?

From The Rochester Times-Union

In Tokyo the other day, a Japanese newspaper man remarked to an American newsmen: "I understand you people have three secretaries of state — Secretary Bobby, Secretary Salinger and that other fellow." Obviously the Nipponese newsmen is confused. Or is he?

Red Tape Snarls Office Designed To Cut It Down

From The Wall Street Journal

After last April's Cuban fiasco, the state department announced rather breathlessly the creation of a "crisis center," an around-the-clock watchdog operation able to cope with overseas emergencies in a hurry.

Well, we see by the papers that the center is quietly folding up shop. In truth, it never really got off the ground. The center couldn't find a place in the established channels of policy-making communication and coordination. Older department bureaus jealously guarded their prerogatives.

So the agency that was supposed to knife through official red-tape has instead been strangled by it. If its demise suggests anything, perhaps it's the desirability of a new "crisis center" to unsnarl the state department.

Can't Understand Why School Child Should be Denied Ride

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I read the article on his opposition to federal aid to parochial schools by Pastor Jacobson of Bailey's Harbor, and if I may would like to remind this gentleman of a few basic truths that he has either never known or has ignored, such as: Our forefathers, Catholic, Lutherans, and Protestant came to America for freedom of religion. In those days they needed each other to even survive — has our civilization changed so much in these intervening years that it won't allow a certain tolerance for each faith? Do we not need each other today as much, if not more, than our forefathers needed each other?

Just because of certain religious beliefs are Catholic children to be barred from certain privileges such as a bus ride to school? Who is to say to one child — "You can't ride on a bus because you are Catholic," or to another child "You may ride because you are going to a public school." Catholic parents, sending their children to parochial schools are tax payers also. They are Americans, too.

I am a Wesleyan Methodist and I hate unkindness or injustice of any kind. Certain men who began to stir up trouble in the South against the Negro — were paid agitators — we don't need men and women who profess Christianity to stir up trouble of this nature. At least this one verse of scripture should be remembered and memorized by everyone and this is "Love Your Neighbor as Yourself and thus fulfill the law of Christ." Let's live and let live.

Why Young People Go to Teen-age Bars

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In a courtroom last week I heard a judge ask several young men picked up for illegal parking, "Why do you people go to these places?" (He was referring to the teenage bars.) I'd like to answer that question and at the same time I'd like to still some of the tongues who have comments like, "They ought to close all of the teen-age bars."

To these people I'd like to direct a question. Do you know that 70 per cent of the fighting men of America who fought and were victorious in Korea were from 17 to 21 years old? Do you know that 42 per cent of the men who fought in World War II were not old enough to vote?

These people go to these places because there they will be accepted for what they are, young adults. They are with their own kind. They are old enough to hold jobs, marry, support families, pay taxes, but yet they are not old enough to be accepted and heard in the adult world. They are old enough to fight for a country that they can't even vote in.

The average teenager today knows more, through the fine medias of news, the newspapers, radios and television than his father did at 25. They know the

Rebel Traitors' Doom Spelled Out

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 1, 1962.

Col. Richardson, of the Military Committee of the House, is preparing a proposition for the punishment of the double-dyed traitors who have added perjury to treason.

It will require the confinement and refusal to exchange of all prisoners who may be taken or arrested as our armies advance, and who had taken the oath of duty and service to the United States. These will include Senators, Representatives, officers of the Army and Navy, and, indeed, all who have been the recipients of the bounty of the nation, whether in fame or profit.

This measure will secure the proper punishment of the rebel leaders, while it draws a broad distinction between them and their infatuated followers.

Political Corruption Unfolded by Road Quiz

BY JAMES MCCARTNEY
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — A pattern of political corruption that reaches across the nation is unfolding in the $41 billion federal interstate highway program.

Investigators have found trouble at almost every point where they have taken time to prod. Now they are focusing on Massachusetts — finding political patronage gone wild, open chiseling by appraisers and incompetent highway personnel — with both political parties cheating at the public trough.

But the roster of evils exposed by the house subcommittee in the last two years, taken as a whole, tells even more.

The Findings

The subcommittee has found: — Blatant disregard of specifications at virtually all stages of highway construction. — Shoddy workmanship. — Use of substandard and "unsuitable" materials. — "Grave deficiencies" in government testing and inspection procedures. — "Serious inadequacy of controls" at both federal and state levels.

— Payoffs by contractors to state engineers who were supposed to be protecting the interests of both the federal government and the state. Says one investigator: "Apparently All Over"

"It's not just Massachusetts — or Florida or New Mexico — or any of the specific places we have checked. "It's apparently all over. "There is too much money — and not enough control."

Auditors for the government's General Accounting Office (GAO) have made studies in 20 states that tend to confirm what the subcommittee is finding.

Arthur Schoenhaut, a top GAO auditor, told the subcommittee that "deficiencies" are "widespread" in the highway program because it is so complex. He said the program is characterized by "an easy vulnerability to various forms of impropriety."

In Massachusetts, as in other states, the subcommittee had deliberately picked aspects of the program that Chairman John Blatnik (D-Minn.) says are "manifestly representative of conditions generally."

The investigation in Massachusetts has centered around the buying of right of way for federal roads.

Appraising Terrible

Hearings will continue but already they have shown a pattern that led one congressman to observe that the Massachusetts program was run "just like a ward political office."

In buying land, the state department of public works set up an appraisal system to set the price the government would pay.

In one case, near South Attleboro, Mass., the owner of a number yard tried to sell his yard for $20,000 — and couldn't get the price.

But the state was willing to pay him $60,000, and did.

Another case, involving a nearby industrial property, was much the same. An independent appraiser valued the property at $67,000 — but the state paid $155,000 for it without batting an eye.

The details of what happened in these cases have not come out in their entirety, but the focus of the inquiry has centered on state appraisers.

No Qualifications

There has been lots of testimony to indicate that the appraisers held political jobs and candidates, their parties, platforms and ideas. With today's fine educational systems, that they have fought and died for, they cannot help but be aware of the world situation.

It is true that there is more and more of a problem of juvenile delinquency, but I say you can't treat a teenager like a child, give him the responsibilities of a citizen, keep telling him all teenagers, their friends, the places they go are wrong, and expect him to act like an adult.

Kaukauna Adult School to Expand

Six New Classrooms Needed For Increasing Enrollments

KAUKAUNA — The board of Vocational and Adult Education is seeking bids on a six-room addition to the present building, according to Dominic Bordini, director.

Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. March 13 in the council chambers of city hall. Plans call for the addition to be constructed above the wing added to the school in 1958.

The new building will have a multi-purpose room which will be divided by a curtain for use as a large or two smaller classrooms, a general crafts room, sewing room, household subject room, electrical electronics room and laboratory and a drafting room with a graphic arts area. The latter two would be made available to the senior high school for the industrial arts education program, Bordini said.

Minimum Furniture

He indicated a minimum of furniture would be needed as the school currently has adequate furniture stored in the municipal building and existing vocational school rooms. The addition is needed due to increasing enrollment in adult education.

The new structure will include lavatories and storage areas. Architect for the structure is George Narovec who also drew plans for the proposed addition to the high school.

Dist. Atty. Says Drinking Ruling Tough to Enforce

Law Would Prohibit Youths Buying, Dispensing Beverage

BY DICK McDANIEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA — The Town of Farmington ordinance restricting the sale of beer to anyone under 21 years of age has teeth in it, but it may be difficult to enforce.

This is the opinion of Edward R. Macklin, acting district attorney, who interpreted the ordinance.

The ordinance, according to Mrs. R. F. Ewald, town clerk, prohibits the "sale, dispensing, giving away or furnishing beer to anyone under 21 years old." It was passed Dec. 21 and contains a penalty clause of up to $200 fine or up to 90 days in jail in default of the fine.

When questioned how the law can be applied, Macklin disclosed that the ordinance not only prohibits the sale of beer within the Chain O'Lakes township, but it also will limit beer drinking by most of those who are declared of beer drinking age by state law.

He said that although the state law allows a person 18 years old or older to buy beer, under the local option, the township can, and in the case of Farmington, did, prohibit the sale, dispensing, furnishing and giving away of beer to those under 21 years.

As an example, one 18-year-old youth would be prohibited from going to Waupaca or any other place where he can legally acquire beer and bring it back into Farmington where he and others were planning to share the beer. In this case, the person buying the beer and bringing it into the township could be arrested for furnishing beer in a restricted township.

The ordinance, however, would not restrict an 18-year-old youth from buying beer where it can legally be purchased and bringing it into the township where he could drink it himself.

Macklin explained that the town ordinance practically prohibits people under 21 years old to drink beer in the township.

The town board, at a meeting Thursday, agreed to abide by the results of the referendum scheduled with the April 3 election. Voters will decide on the future of the town ordinance.

Snow Dumped On Street; Man Fined $15

Clifford LaPeau, 1314 1/2 Manitowoc Road, Menasha, Friday became the first person to be fined for violating Appleton's new snow emergency ordinance forbidding people to deposit snow on streets.

LaPeau paid $15 fine and $4 costs in county court for piling snow in the street at Seymour and Bouten streets. Police said the snow pile extended three to four feet into the lane of traffic.

He was arrested by city police late in February after Louis Fustfield, 617 W. Seymour St. complained that someone had plowed a neighbor's sidewalk and driveway and deposited some of the snow on Fustfield's property. Police checked and found the pile of snow in the street, also.

Hecrodt Named To Red Cross Post

MENASHA — Frank Hecrodt Jr., 205 Cleveland St., Friday was appointed the small business solicitation chairman of the Menasha Chapter of the American Red Cross, by Perry Kimmell, chairman of members and funds.

Hecrodt previously served as chairman of members and funds and on the chapter's board of directors. He is a salesman for Hoffmaster Co. Inc., an Oshkosh paper products firm.

24 Hours of Daylight Here's Account of Summer in Antarctica

FREMONT—If we in the Fox Cities area think winter has been bad, here's a first hand report on summer in far Antarctica.

A telephone call to Fremont from the South Pole was made Wednesday morning. A G. 3 James Sander, aerologist, on the physical geographic survey expedition of the East Wind Coast Guard Cutter spoke with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sander, star route.

In the 20-minute conversation, he relayed a description of the Antarctic summer with 24 hours of sunlight each day and where the temperature at 1 a.m., the time of the call, was about 25 degrees above zero in contrast to the approximate 20 degrees below zero here.

Contact was made by short wave radio to Plattsville, Wis., from the base in Little America and then to the Sander home by telephone.

Sander said the expedition had broken more than 9 feet of ice and that the refueling hoses at times had been stretched across such expanses of ice that the fuel reached its destination after the pumps had been working from four to six hours.

There had been 14-hour-long blizzards hampering the work of the expedition, which will be completed this month. James, who volunteered to take part in this operation, will complete his four-year enlistment in the Coast Guard in July.

City Plan Adoption Backed by Chamber

Insurance struggle Bubolz Still Sees Chance for Convention

Gordon Bubolz, Appleton attorney and insurance executive who is active in an insurgent group attempting to overthrow the management of the Lutheran Brotherhood Life Insurance Society, said today he has "every confidence a special convention can still be called."

The management of the Minneapolis-based insurance firm said today a court-ordered review of written requests for the special convention fell 83 short of the minimum needed to enforce the convention demand.

The administration said the number of requests totaled 562. A total of 645 were needed to call the convention.

K. T. Severud, secretary of the firm, said he had originally received 662 requests, but that many of these were revoked by later letters from delegates.

Denies Claim

Bubolz said that the company's claim that many of the requests were written by non-legal delegates was wrong. He said the company maintained that some of the delegates' policies had matured and others had become employed elsewhere and were not representative agents. Bubolz claims all the delegates were representative of the firm when the requests were written.

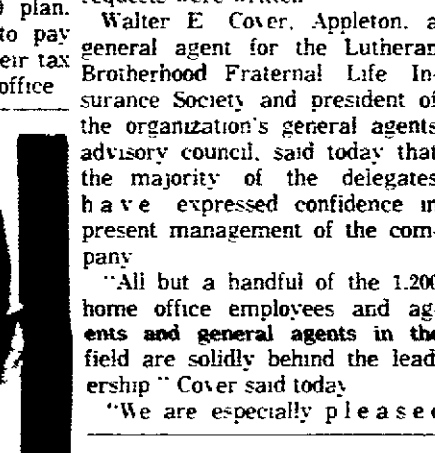

Walter E. Cover, Appleton, a general agent for the Lutheran Brotherhood Fraternal Life Insurance Society and president of the organization's general agents advisory council, said today that the majority of the delegates have expressed confidence in present management of the company.

"All but a handful of the 1,200 home office employees and agents and general agents in the field are solidly behind the leadership," Cover said today.

"We are especially pleased with the court's decision to dismiss the law suit against President Carl F. Granrud and vice president John Lienemann, which charged mismanagement," Cover said.

Insurgents had announced they would attempt to unseat Granrud. Bubolz claims the management has spent $200,000 in campaigning in the current power struggle.

Bubolz said that his group does not plan any legal moves in the near future, but that the Committee of 100, the insurgent group, may consider taking the case to the Minnesota attorney general.

Burmese Teacher Calls Coup 'Cure For Intrigues'

The coup d'etat in Burma is "a cure for the many political intrigues which have occurred since the split in U. Nu's party at the convention in January," says a Burmese professor teaching this semester at Lawrence College.

U. Aung Than, a professor at the University of Rangoon, Burma, is the visiting Whitney-Fulbright professor and an authority on Pali, the ancient language of Buddhist scriptures. He teaches Living Religions of the World at Lawrence, and lectures occasionally in Indian philosophy.

Discussing the coup d'etat, he commented, "The army feared there would be internal trouble and even open conflict as a result of the split, so it took over. Of course, no one likes the army taking over the government, but at the present state of politics this is the best solution for when there is open conflict the communist party will always interfere and take advantage of the situation."

Appleton Board of Directors Will Present Resolution to Council After Okaying Proposal

A resolution urging the city of Appleton to prepare a comprehensive city plan "with all practicable speed" has been approved by Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

The resolution, approved Friday at a meeting of the chamber board of directors, will be presented to the city council at Wednesday's meeting, according to Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary.

Drafted by the "Project 70" committee, the resolution is the first such action taken by a civic group asking the city to undertake a city plan.

When and if the city completes a comprehensive plan, Appleton may become eligible for urban renewal funds from the federal government.

Didn't Say How

The "Project 70" committee did not stipulate how the city was to undertake the plan. During the drafting phase of the plan, Giles Flanagan, assistant secretary of the chamber and a spokesman for the "Project 70" committee, said it would be best for the city to hire an outside planner to take on the task of preparing the plan.

The resolution states that the city of Appleton is "dependent upon business areas for a large percentage of its local tax revenue and employment of its citizens." The realization of worthwhile community goals requires planning and development upon sound factual data.

The resolution points out the future growth of Appleton would depend on good access, effective mass transportation, separation of traffic, strategically located open spaces, continuous and substantial capital investments and adequate off-street parking.

Committee Says

The "Project 70" committee says in the resolution that only through a comprehensive plan can commercial areas adjust to a changing urban pattern and cope with problems of inner core decay, unrelated land uses and other problems related to the growth of a modern city.

Corbett said the committee was unanimous in passing the resolution. He said several methods of presenting the resolution to the council were discussed, and it was agreed to follow normal protocol procedures.

Corbett said the resolution would be filed with City Clerk Eldeen Broehm Monday.

Free Chest X-Ray Centers Postponed

Open centers for free chest X-rays have been cancelled for the week of March 5 through 9, according to Mrs. T. H. Hartman, president of the Appleton Area Tuberculosis Association.

The delay was caused by a mechanical breakdown in the mobile unit.

The tuberculosis association will announce a new schedule when the unit has been repaired.

Hard Hitting Journal Voices Conservative UW Student Opinion

MADISON — In a book-lined apartment two miles from the busy student rooming district at Madison, a University of Wisconsin student produces a hard-hitting monthly journal of conservative opinion that symbolizes in its viewpoint on any campus in America the emergence of conservatism among students that has been widely observed around the country.

Millard Johnson of Plymouth, Minn., a veterinarian who is preparing for a career in business, is the editor and publisher of "Insight and Outlook," a handsome monthly which has survived into its fourth year to establish some kind of a record for student publications of its kind. Johnson says his paper is the oldest and fastest growing of its kind in the Midwest.

Currently he is distributing 3,000 copies and meeting the publication costs with advertising sales to Wisconsin businessmen and well-wishers.

Attracted Attention

The work of Johnson and his associates has attracted considerable attention on a campus where older faculty members remember that a generation ago right-wing student expression was virtually nonexistent, and when the school was often attacked by politicians as a center of student radicalism.

The publication is an off-shoot of the student Conservative Club organized several years ago, and which now has more than 100 members. Contributors are mostly students, but some outsiders and professors have been invited to assist and some of them have done so. A lead article in the current issue bears the name of a prominent University professor of Slavic languages.

He describes the policy and objective of his periodical this way:

Individual Freedom

"Insight and Outlook is dedicated to help students understand the ideological importance of current affairs, to defend individual freedom against the forces of collectivism to offer a conservative rather than a radical approach to the problems of our modern society, and to clarify the workings of the free market economy. We feel that the ideological conflict now in progress will determine the fate of the freedom and the very life of America. Insight and Outlook intends to support the Conservative offensive until the last bureaucrat is pensioned off."

Johnson is not active in particular politics but a huge poster of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona suggests his views. He is not especially interested in political action but in "ideas." Goldwater is his choice for the presidency, but he is not sure he will run for the presidential nomination, not sure that he can be nominated if he runs and not sure that he can be elected if he is nominated. He says he would "bother to vote for Nixon, but I wouldn't stump for him."

Johnson matter-of-factly reports his impression that the bulk of today's university students are "conservatives." But many of them must be reminded of the issues and tend to be indifferent. In numerical terms the Conservative Club is probably as strong as the campus liberal groups. Liberal clubs on the campus are useless, he feels, "because students can get that in the classrooms here."

High Divorce Rate In Eastern Europe Worries Communists

Chicago Daily News Service

MUNICH, Germany — Communist authorities in Eastern Europe are expressing concern about the short duration of married bliss, says Radio Free Europe.

There — as in the West — the divorce rate has shown a marked tendency to increase in recent years. This is partly because divorce is inexpensive and comparatively easy to obtain but Western observers also believe it reflects a general feeling of instability among the population.

Official statistics indicate that the average expectation of married life in Budapest (17,854 marriages, 9,048 divorces in 1959) is two years and in Prague (7,061 marriages, 2,780 divorces) three years.

In East Berlin average marriage duration is four years and the actual divorce rate — measured in terms of population — is at 26 per thousand inhabitants in 1959 the highest in the world.

Music Educator Will Review NHS Orchestra

J. Frederick Muller To Conduct Portion Of Thursday Program

NEENAH — J. Frederick Muller, Elkhart, Ind., the nationally known music educator, clinician, conductor and composer will be in Neenah Wednesday and Thursday to conduct a critique of the Neenah High School Orchestra.

He will work with the orchestra before their concert Thursday evening at 8 p.m. at the junior high school gymnasium. He will conduct a portion of that program.

Muller has been interested in the Neenah string program since it began in 1955 and has encouraged the director, Robert Gruetzman, from the very beginning. The program was started in the Neenah school system at fourth grade level by the superintendent of schools, the late Harold B. Mennens.

Last September Muller sent an invitation to the Neenah High School Symphony inviting the group to appear at the National Music Educators Association Conference at Chicago, March 16. The "Say It With Music" program which they will play in local concert and at Chicago was outlined by Muller.

50,000 Set to Welcome Glenn At New Concord

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—They were set to squeeze perhaps 50,000 people into this little village of 2,127 today to welcome astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. back from space.

For John Glenn, fresh from public ovals in Florida, Washington and New York, it might not be the visit he would like. He would have little opportunity to meet old friends and visit the places he knew as a boy and young man.

It would be a visit of less than six hours—including a luncheon, parade and some speech making in Muskingum College Gymnasium, then back to Washington. On Monday, he will go back to Cape Canaveral for more scientific consultations.

New Concord itself, somewhat staggered at the momentous occasion and the influx of thousands wanting to see the astronaut, got a promise from the National School and Space Administration in the Little Nine Conference at attraction: "John will be back later Denmark have been selected out to see and talk with his old of the 43 students who competed, friends—and soon."

Plans for Outdoor Activities Seen by Valley Campers

NEENAH — Future activities of the Fox Valley Chapter of the National Campers and Hikers Association were outlined at Friday night's meeting at the Neenah recreation building. A talent show by children of members was the meeting highlight.

Next meeting on the chapter's schedule will be a visit to the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center planetarium April 10, while a family picnic is planned for May. Members will share in a work weekend at the NCHA camp at Montello April 27 to 29.

Summer campouts planned are the state convention at Oconomowoc June 15 to 17 and chapter campouts at Dyne's Resort near Hortonville July 13 to 16, Franklin-Butternut Lake July 21 to 23, Bear Lake Aug. 10 to 12, Two Rivers Aug. 24 to 26 and Montello Sept. 7 to 9.

Two Appleton Women Hurt in Separate Auto Accidents

Two Appleton women suffered injuries in separate car collisions Friday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Joseph Bartol, 114 E. Brewster St., was hurt when her car and one operated by Richard J. Bodway, 538 N. State St., collided on Mason Street near Oklahoma Street.

Mrs. Bartol was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's ambulance.

The accident occurred about 12:01 p.m. when Mrs. Bartol stopped her car because a child ran across the street in front of her. Bodway, following behind Mrs. Bartol, was not able to stop fast enough, according to the police report.

Mrs. Gordon R. Giebisch, 1224 W. Parkway Blvd., was injured when the car driven by her husband and one driven by Odellia M. Meiklejohn, New London, collided at Mason and Winnebago streets about 9:33 p.m.

Both drivers told police they didn't see each other approaching the intersection.

Mrs. Giebisch was taken by her husband to see their family doctor, police reported.

Social Action Group Report Given Thursday

In play reading the entries are Carol Wentzel, Sue Christensen and Dick Wentzel in a scene from "Blithe Spirit" while the alternates are Jackie Schmoker and Tim Brickham who enacted a part of "Anne of the Thousand Days."

Other entries are Janet Wine and Judy Anderson in four-minute speech, Laura Hesse in public address, Wayne Combs and Robert Helgeson in extemporaneous speaking, Cheryl Davis and Chris Ataman in original orations, Maynard Christensen and Kathleen Dellemann in non-original orations.

Sailors End Shelter Test

2-Week Underground Stay Demonstrates Survival Methods

WASHINGTON (AP)—One hundred Navy men emerge from an experimental underground shelter today to look around and see a world shut off to them for two weeks.

They have demonstrated it is possible to live for a fortnight in a 25 x 40-foot shelter, subsisting on basic rations, and out of touch with the rest of the world. Thousands of millions of Americans might have to live this way if there were a nuclear attack on the United States.

The Navy sent the volunteers, including a Navy doctor and an officer who served as skipper, into the shelter on Feb. 17 to test several things.

Military Shelters

1 Whether the design of the shelter is satisfactory. A steel and wood structure buried under five feet of earth, it was ventilated by air passing through filters and had no artificial heat. The military is now getting ready to build fallout shelters at large military installations.

2 How the sailors, who joined the experiment immediately after basic training at the Great Lakes, Ill., Naval Training Center, would react to long confinement in close quarters.

The fact that 100 men lived without extreme discomfort for two weeks in a small space proved nothing new. Crews of atomic submarines have been doing it for several years.

Snow Banks Blamed In 3 Accidents At Grant, Union Streets

High snow banks are listed as the cause of three auto accidents at Grant and Union streets in Appleton during a nine-hour period Friday. There were no injuries.

The second happened about 1 p.m. Cars driven by Nellie Welser, 2121 N. Drew St., and Judith A. McCone, 1107 E. Moorpark Ave. collided.

About 6 p.m., vehicles driven by Michael B. Herliche, 907 E. Glendale Ave., and Eileen H. Hoel, 2417 N. Union St., collided.

All of the drivers told police their vision was obscured by the big piles of snow.

Police Order Bike Riders Off Streets

NEW LONDON — Chief of Police Jack Algiers issued a warning Friday to parents to prohibit their children from riding bicycles on the city streets.

Algiers said the police department has received several complaints from motorists who have had near accidents with children riding bicycles. With the high snow banks, that block the vision of drivers, it is almost impossible for drivers to see a bicycle when approaching an intersection, he said.

A warning was also issued to newsboys who use their bicycles on their paper routes. Algiers said the boys should be extremely careful when they enter the street from private driveways lined with high snow banks.

Here's a Few Good Things About Snow

White Covering Actually Helps Soil and Plants

There are a few good things to say about snow.

One of the most important is that a deep blanket of snow is the best possible protection for soil and plants, says University of Wisconsin botanist Grant Cottam, research director of the UW Arboretum.

"The quantity of snow that falls on native plant communities is important not only for the amount of water that it contributes to the soil," Cottam says. "Snow is an excellent insulator and any time there is an appreciable quantity of it on the ground the soil is fairly immune from the exceedingly low temperatures that occur in winter."

A long-term research project, one of many carried on in the UW Arboretum, has demonstrated major differences between snow depth and rate of snow melt in different forest and vegetation types.

Least Amount
"The coniferous forests usually have the least amount of snow on the ground," Cottam reports. "This is plainly due to the fact that conifers keep their leaves all year, so that much of the snow that falls remains in the crown of the trees and either melts or evaporates there, never reaching the ground at all."

The time at which snow leaves the ground depends, of course, on the amount of snow, but also on the temperatures prevailing during February and March, Cottam continues.

"During six years for which the date of snow melt is available, the final day on which snow was present varies from February 26 to April 9," Cottam says of the UW Arboretum. "This wide fluctuation is probably an important factor in determining what plants are able to grow, since the species that succeed must be able to exist during winters when the ground is bare and the soil is frozen, as well as to survive during the occasional winters when the snow is two feet deep."

Greatest snow depth occurs in the Arboretum prairies, Cottam points out. Next in greatest depth, and not much different from the prairie, are the oak woods. While pine woods have the least snow, on the average, the deepest snow recorded has been in the pines.

Some Openings
"Here there are occasional openings and the trees act as a snow fence, with the result that the lee side of openings in the pine forest may have snow depths of up to a foot more than the rest of the woods," Cottam points out. The snow melts in these three vegetation types in reverse order—the prairies are free of snow first, then the oak woods, and finally the pines.

"The reason is apparently closely related to the reason why the pines get less snow in the first place," Cottam says. "The needles on the trees not only cut down the amount of snow that reaches the ground, but they also cut down on the amount of sunlight, and consequently retard the rate of melting."

Frost depth is quite variable. The Arboretum research shows buried electronic thermometers known as thermistors have begun to give the UW scientists some much-needed information on the freezing characteristics of soils under various vegetation types.

No Data
"We do not yet have data for frost depths in the pines or prairie," Cottam says. "but we know that in the oak woods, when the snowfall is heavy, the ground does not freeze. Last year, however, when we had practically no snow plant ecology, until March, we had frost. This year, in spite of the extreme cold, there is no frost in the marsh. This is true not only in a permanent facility and has a variety of plant communities in close proximity to each other."

Cottam adds that the UW Arboretum provides an ideal area for studies of the effect of climate upon plant growth. Recent Committee

John Byrnes, Melvin Laird Hold Key

Posts for Upcoming Election Campaign

Algerians Fear French Fighters

'Les Barbouzes' Try Where Others Fail; Roughly Half Survive

BY ANDREW BOROWIEC ALGIERS (AP) — Some contemptuously call them "Les Barbouzes"—the bearded ones. Each of them is a target the minute he steps on Algerian soil.

They are French government commandos, sent here to combat the European Secret Army Organization's terrorism.

The "bearded ones" have not hesitated where normal police procedures have failed.

They are hated by most European settlers, who blame them for most deaths in Algiers. They are held in contempt by some in the French army. Moslems accuse them of not being efficient enough in fighting the European underground.

And they have been dying like flies.

It is said that roughly half of an average 40-man Barbouze commando survives to collect $400 pay at the end of their first month in Algiers.

The Barbouzes are the No. 1 target of the secret army, which is fighting to keep Algeria under French rule.

A half dozen 40-man teams are believed operating in Algiers.

To a Barbouze lookout on the roof of a massive villa in the suburb of La Redoute, every car, every man approaching, means a potential killer.

Nine guns were pointed at a group of newsmen who approached the villa one morning after a bazooka attack.

In the courtyard, some 20 men tensely clasped new weapons. Most carried submachine guns, and had pistols in holsters which were strapped to their civilian suits. A light machine gun was in position.

They were in their early 20s. Most were Europeans, but several had Asiatic features. One was a Moslem.

A man dressed in a tailored suit stepped forward.

"Officially we don't exist," he told newsmen. "But since you have seen us, please write that we are like bank guards sent to protect a branch office when things aren't what they should be."

Temperatures were below normal for the third consecutive month. The monthly mean was 16 degrees. The average maximum of 23.9 degrees was 4.5 degrees below normal and the average minimum of 8.2 degrees was 2.9 degrees below normal. The month's highest temperature was 39 on the fourth and there were five days when the temperature went above freezing. The month's lowest temperature of -13 on the 28th set a new record low for that date.

Heating degree days totaled 1,370 during February for an accumulated total for the season of covering tax, appropriations, and agricultural subjects, but also any reorganization plans presented by President Kennedy. Byrnes' committee has been credited with much of the work behind the recent successful campaign to defeat the President's request for authority to establish a new Department of Urban Affairs at the cabinet level.

The second GOP policy-maker from the Badger state is Rep. Melvin R. Laird, of Marshfield who this week was elected House chairman of a newly-formed Senate-House Committee to draft the "1962 Republican Statement of Principles."

Six Members
This committee, comprised of six members of the house, and six from the senate, will meet regularly at the Capitol and will consult frequently with former President Eisenhower and GOP standard bearer and former vice president, Richard M. Nixon.

"We expect to cover the waterfront," Laird said expansively. "We'll make recommendations on party policy matters on all government matters, as well as the individual bills coming before the Congress and on future campaign issues."

Black Creek Man Escapes Injury in Train-Car Collision

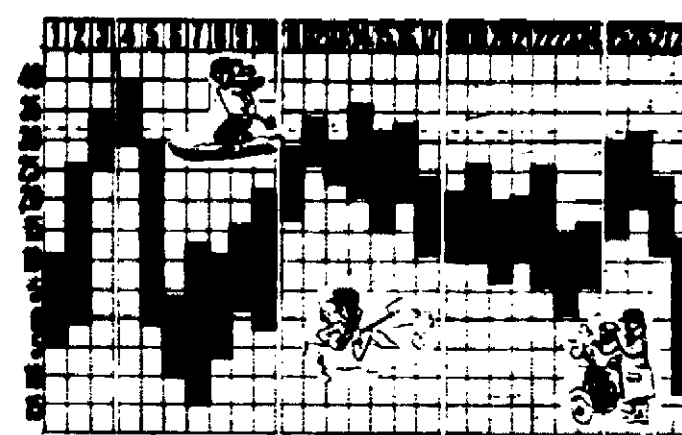

George Steele, Black Creek, escaped injury Friday night when his car and a freight train collided at Maple Street in Black Creek. The accident occurred about 7:30 p.m. Steele's car had an estimated $600 damage.

Students, Teachers With Guard Unit May Be Released

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—An estimated 1,200 students and 350 teachers with Wisconsin's 32nd Infantry Division will be eligible for early release under an order issued in Washington Friday by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The division information office made the estimate after publication of the order, which directs the teachers and students be released in July and August, or earlier if they are needed for demobilization of the former National Guard Division. The 32nd was called up last October for a year of service.

To Your Good Health Loss of Hearing Can Be Retarded in Most Cases

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done to retard loss of hearing which is becoming more annoying in my case. I am in my middle 60's. Please use only my first two initials because some friends reported my trouble to hearing aid companies and I have had five salesmen call on me already.—R.P.

In fairness to the salesmen, they were "invited" to call on you, even though you didn't do the inviting. Your friends, it seems to me, should let YOU decide when and whom to invite.

Now, what to do about your problem? As we grow older, loss of hearing is more likely to be progressive, although this is not always the case. It depends on the cause.

In any event, it is important to ascertain some fundamental facts. Is the auditory nerve affected? Or is the nerve still perfectly healthy, but the sound waves are not reaching it?

Requires Tests
This is something that a salesman isn't going to be able to tell you. It requires tests by an ear specialist. Offer that, various possibilities arise.

The worst is to be told that nothing can be done—and, unhappily, a few of us will get such an answer. However, it's better to know than not to know. If you

Dear Dr. Molner: How many calories in a teaspoon of olive oil? Is one teaspoon a day harmful? I have heard it is a good way to gain weight.—Mrs. A. L.

About 36 calories to a teaspoonful, and one a day isn't harmful. Every extra calorie helps in gaining weight, of course, but don't expect any tremendous gain from 36 calories a day. Why not eat a little more of everything?

Struck in Face With Broken Beer Glass at Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — An 18-year-old New London youth is being examined at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, this morning for possible loss of an eye after being injured in a tavern fight early this morning.

Richard Stern, 505 W. Warren St., was struck in the face with a broken beer glass at Radke's Recreation about 12:30 a.m. Weyauwega Police Chief Ken Thompson said holding Richard P. Soper, 20, route 1, Amherst.

Thompson said Soper has admitted striking Stern with the glass after an argument over a girl. Thompson is conferring with Waupaca County Dist. Atty. Edward Macklin on possible charges.

Also being held in the Waupaca County jail with Soper are Leonard J. Robbins, 22, 212 S. State St., Waupaca and Robert Ingersoll, 22, 1308 Division St., New London.

Thompson said that Ingersoll will be charged with disorderly conduct for striking Soper. Soper required seven stitches on his face from the blow.

Around Home..

Joseph McCann, Kimberly, has gained respect for teen-age drivers as a result of an incident recently. McCann's car became stuck in deep snow as he attempted to drive into his driveway about 11 p.m. Tuesday. Four youths came upon the scene, stopped and aided him as he shovelled to clear his car. After seeing him safely to the garage, McCann tried to thank the boys, but they merely handed him a card and hurried away. The card read, "Angel Wheels Car Club, Little Chute."

Nelson May Still Run for Governor

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wisconsin Democratic Chairman Patrick Lucey says he has urged Gov. Gaylord Nelson to run for the U.S. Senate and Atty. Gen. John Reynolds to seek the governorship, but Nelson might seek another term as chief executive.

Lucey, in an interview Friday night, said, "It would be a mistake to assume that it's cut and dried. It could very well work out that Nelson will run for governor and Reynolds for the Senate."

The chairman said he has urged Nelson to announce his plans as soon as possible to permit party planning for the coming campaign. Nelson also has been urged by Reynolds to announce so that the attorney general can get into whichever race the governor does not make.
